Mark R. Johnson DVM. Dr. Johnson is Executive Director of Global Wildlife Resources, Inc. This non-profit organization specializes in wildlife capture and handling and promotes care, honor, and respect for animals touched by wildlife research and management. Dr. Johnson was project veterinarian for the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service's 1995-96 gray wolf reintroduction program into Yellowstone National Park and central Idaho and was the wildlife veterinarian for Yellowstone National Park for four years. He is Adjunct Assistant Professor of University of Minnesota and Affiliate Faculty of University of Montana. Dr. Johnson wrote the agency training manual for wildlife chemical immobilization for USDA Wildlife Services and has taught for the U.S.F.W. S. National Conservation Training Center. Dr. Johnson's courses and field assistance with wildlife captures has reached across the country. In the past several years, he has directed his specialty toward improving the lives of people and feral dogs and cats in the Caribbean and assisted with three rescue operations after Hurricane Katrina. His most recent service is volunteering for Vets Beyond Borders to teach how to capture feral dogs in India.

Global Wildlife Resources, Inc. is a 501(c)(3) dedicated to supporting wildlife professionals.
